Dear Mr. Meadors,

Thank you for contacting the Center for Legislative Archives. I have been unable to identify any files in the records of House and Senate committees related to an investigation of the 1967 USS Liberty incident. As far as I can tell, the investigation held by the Naval Board of Inquiry seems to be the primary government investigation into the incident. For more information on modern Navy Records please contact our College Park facility at archives2reference@nara.gov

Please let me know if you have any questions,

Adam Berenbak

Gentlemen:

I am a survivor of the June 8, 1967, Israeli attack on the USS Liberty and currently serve my shipmates as Director of Operations of the USS Liberty Veterans Association.

We are trying to track down a copy of the US government's investigation of the attack on our ship.

We have been able to obtain a number of US government reports about or that mention the USS Liberty but none are investigations of the attack itself.

Could you check the records available to you and see if you can find a US government investigation of the attack on our ship?

Warmest regards,

Joe Meadors
